NORTON SIMON MUSEUM
ART-MAKING ACTIVITY: MAKE A SKETCHBOOK JOURNAL
GRADES 6–12

Objective
Learn how Vincent van Gogh communicated with his friends and family by writing letters that recorded his feelings and his paintings. Then create a sketchbook journal to chronicle your days with writings and sketches.

Background
Vincent van Gogh (Dutch, 1853–1890) was a Post-Impressionist painter known for his vibrant colors and thick, expressive brushstrokes. Although he suffered from delicate mental health and experienced nervous breakdowns, he was much more than his illness. In his short career of 10 years, Van Gogh created nearly 900 paintings and more than 1,100 works on paper. He wanted people to say of his work, “That man feels deeply, and that man feels subtly.”

Before he decided to become an artist at age 27, Van Gogh tried unsuccessfully to build a career as an art dealer, teacher, bookseller and preacher. As he pursued these various careers, he lived in many places. Wherever he was, he would send his brother Theo, an art dealer himself, letters that often included sketches of what he had seen.

Recognizing his brother’s talent, Theo encouraged Van Gogh to focus on his drawing, and this encouragement inspired him to dedicate his life to becoming an artist. He was mostly self-taught, copying prints and learning from drawing manuals and a variety of books.

In his early work, Van Gogh used a dark color palette that echoed the earth tilled by the rural laborers he was depicting. He felt both a deep respect and empathy toward these workers. In 1885, he wrote to Theo, “I have tried to make it clear how those people, eating their potatoes under the lamplight, have dug the earth with those very hands they put in the dish, and so it speaks of manual labor, and how they have honestly earned their food.”

When Van Gogh moved to France a year later, the country’s light, color and art inspired him to incorporate more color into his paintings. He eventually developed his signature style of vibrant colors and short brushstrokes. He wrote to Theo, “What color is in a picture, enthusiasm is in life.” Through Van Gogh’s letters, we get a glimpse into the artist’s mind, feelings and artistic process.

411 West Colorado Boulevard, Pasadena, California 91105
phone: 626.449.6840 e-mail: educate@nortonsimon.org www.nortonsimon.org
Discussion

• How would you compare the style and palette of the Mulberry Tree with that of Head of a Peasant Woman in a White Bonnet on the activity page? Why do you think Van Gogh chose to use such different colors and styles? What do they communicate about the subjects and Van Gogh's feelings about them when he painted them?

Vocabulary

• Color palette: the range of colors used in a particular painting.
• Post-Impressionism: an art movement that originated in France in the late 1880s in reaction against the naturalism of Impressionism. Post-Impressionist artists emphasized symbolic content, formal order and structure.

Images of works referenced in this activity lesson

The Mulberry Tree
The Potato Eaters
Head of a Peasant Woman in a White Bonnet
Letter 824 from Van Gogh to Theo
Letter 489 from Van Gogh to Theo

Van Gogh resources from the Norton Simon Museum

Works by Van Gogh in the Collection
Highlights Curriculum Guide: Portrait of a Peasant (Patience Escalier)
Elements of Art Curriculum Guide: The Mulberry Tree
Podcast: Van Gogh's Self-Portrait, 1889, on Loan from the National Gallery of Art, Washington
Podcast: Van Gogh's Bedroom on Loan from the Art Institute of Chicago
Lecture: From Unrecognized Genius to Global Icon: Vincent van Gogh Then and Now
Lecture: Van Gogh’s “Bedrooms”: Making and Meaning

Van Gogh resources from other institutions

Van Gogh Museum
Van Gogh’s Letters
Unravel Van Gogh (view details of Van Gogh’s work)
MOMA’s exhibition Van Gogh and the Colors of the Night
The MET: Van Gogh Biography
Books, letters and quotes

The Letters of Vincent Van Gogh
Vincent and Theo
Van Gogh Museum Book Club (includes pdfs)
The National Gallery: Teaching Packet (includes a list of books and films)
Quotes from Van Gogh’s Letters

Videos

Van Gogh Museum
Smarthistory
Tate: Van Gogh: Challenging the Myth of the ‘Tortured Genius’

Activities

Van Gogh Museum: Lessons
Van Gogh Museum: Paint Like Van Gogh
National Gallery: Self-portrait Activity

Curriculum Connections

NATIONAL CORE ART STANDARDS

• Anchor Standard 1 — Generate and conceptualize artistic ideas and work.
• Anchor Standard 2 — Organize and develop artistic ideas and work.
• Anchor Standard 3 — Refine and complete artistic work.
• Anchor Standard 7 — Perceive and analyze artistic work.

CALIFORNIA ART STANDARDS FOR VISUAL ARTS

• 6.VA: Cr2.1 — Demonstrate openness in trying new ideas, materials, methods, and approaches in making works of art and design.
• Prof.VA: Cr1.2 — Shape an artistic investigation of an aspect of present-day life using a contemporary practice of art or design.
Van Gogh wrote hundreds of letters to his friends and family that discussed his emotions, beliefs and the paintings that he was working on. Many of these letters also included sketches. In a letter to his brother Theo, he included a sketch of Head of a Peasant Woman in a White Bonnet (Sien de Groot), a painting which doubled as a study for his first masterpiece, The Potato Eaters. Years later, he wrote three times to his brother and sister about The Mulberry Tree, a painting that he felt was the best of its kind.

Make a sketchbook journal and chronicle your days with writings and sketches. Use the prompts at the end of these instructions to help you get started.
MATERIALS:

- Cardstock or thick paper (1 sheet of 9 in. x 12 in. trimmed to a 8½ in. x 11 ½ in.)
- White paper (5 pieces, 8½ in. x 11 in.)
- Scissor
- String
- Needle
- Awl (or other sharp tool to poke holes)
- Collage papers
- Glue
- Tape
- Pencil

STEPS:

Fold your cardstock in half to make the cover of your sketchbook journal. You can use a pencil to sharpen the crease.

Fold your white pieces of paper in half, one at a time. Nest each folded piece into the other to make the pages of your sketchbook journal.
Unfold your cover and center your pages inside the cover. Using a pencil, make a dot in the middle of the page crease. Make another dot about a half an inch from the top and about a half an inch from the bottom.

Using an awl or other sharp tool (you can also use a needle to poke through each page and cover), poke a hole through all the pages and the cover where you marked with the dots (middle, top and bottom of the crease).

Put your string through your needle and poke the needle and string into the middle hole, leaving out about a few inches of string.
From the outer middle hole, string through the outer bottom hole and back in through the middle hole.

String through the outer top hole and tie the two ends inside your journal, making sure the string is taut.

Cut off the extra string.
Personalize your cover with collage, markers and more!

Below are prompts that can help you get started on your journal.

Write and/or sketch your thoughts.

- What is the most memorable thing that has happened recently?
- What are you feeling right now?
- What do you need right now?
- What challenges are you facing? What are some ways to help overcome these challenges?
- What do you notice about yourself that is different from a few years ago?
- What is something that you are looking forward to?
- What gives you hope?
- What are some things that you are grateful for, big or small?
- When do you feel your best? What are you doing? Where are you?
- Write a letter to your future self about what you are experiencing right now.
- Describe a person that inspires you and why.
- Describe a time when someone complimented you. How did it feel?
- Describe something that you’re reading, listening to or watching that inspires you.
- Describe a place that makes you feel happy and safe.
- Describe your perfect day. Be specific.
- Finish this sentence and keep going: I am...
- Finish this sentence and keep going: We are...
- Share some of these prompts with a friend and exchange thoughts as a way to get to better understand each other.